RemoteX Technology is a Swedish company that provides cloud-based subscriptions to field-service companies. RemoteX services enable customers to handle all core-process administration directly via smartphones.

RemoteX has a second generation scalable platform to which customers sign up via the web. This allows customers to get quick access to the product, without heavy investments and long lead times.

The investors behind Xetomer AB are a group of private investors led by Klas Hillström who was formerly a partner at 3i Nordic and managing director of the Swedish VC firm Investor Growth Capital.

Clairfield Partners in Sweden (R & R Partners) acted as the exclusive financial advisor to RemoteX.
